While we do help most types of businesses, On Point Marketing has a special interest in the healthcare industry. We empower business owners to break through the noise, attract fresh customers and establish themselves as industry leaders.

I'm a father to two beautiful children and my family is my number one. I started off my career in healthcare where I worked as an Orthoptist performing well over 10,000 eye exams. You could say that's a lot of eyes, but it's also a whole lot of compassion, patience and understanding the needs and frustrations of others.

From here, I moved into business management roles supplying millions of dollar's worth of healthcare products. For my efforts, I won multiple awards as well as achieving well above my targets. With over 5,000 business meetings, you could say that I've also learnt a few things about running a business.

ive heard of Fiverr and Upwork... isn't that just as good?

As a business owner, you're constantly seeking cost-effective solutions and ways to boost efficiency. It's natural to be drawn to online platforms like Fiverr or Upwork which offer access to thousands of freelancers at affordable prices. However, are these services truly the best choice for your marketing needs?

Firstly, both Fiverr and Upwork face a significant challenge – the lack of quality control. Unlike specialised marketing agencies, these platforms lack stringent verification processes to ensure the skills and experience of their freelancers.

Moreover, using Fiverr or Upwork comes with the drawback of a limited range of services. While you may find freelancers for simple tasks like graphic design, copywriting and basic SEO, specialised marketing services such as inbound marketing strategies or email marketing automation may be harder to come by.

Effective communication is crucial for a successful marketing campaign.

Unfortunately, Fiverr or Upwork can pose communication difficulties. Freelancers may speak a different language or reside in a different time zone, leading to misunderstandings, and delays that hinder the execution of your marketing campaign.

There is also a risk of plagiarism when hiring a freelance writer on Fiverr or Upwork. While the cost may be appealing, it's important to note the potential consequences. Poorly written content or plagiarism can tarnish your brand's reputation and harm your search engine rankings.

Finally, it's essential to consider long-term partnerships beyond your immediate marketing needs. Building a lasting relationship with a marketing agency allows for a better understanding of your brand and industry. However, when working with Fiverr or Upwork, you are more likely to engage freelancers on a project-by-project basis, hindering the development of the necessary relationship for an effective marketing campaign.

Platforms like Fiverr and Upwork may seem appealing, they may not be the best solution for your marketing needs. The lack of quality control, limited range of services, communication difficulties, risk of plagiarism, and a long-term partnership pose significant challenges.

To ensure quality and consistency in your marketing campaigns, it is advisable to rely on reputable and experienced marketing agencies that specialise in your industry.

our website design process

Brian helped me through my first year in business. We ran paid ad campaigns and created a new website. As a result, I've been able to build a good patient database. Now that I'm expanding my business, I've looked to Brian again for more online marketing. Can't wait to see the results!

It was a pleasure to have Brian design my website. His work met all of my expectations. He was reliable, always on time and so easy to deal with. He listened to what I wanted and was able to design and build a website that I had pictured. Looking forward to working with Brian again for my future marketing needs.
